Smart Strategies for Better Sales,
Inventory & Customer Satisfaction

1 CLEARANCE STRATEGY FOR SLOW-MOVING PRODUCTS

For products with low sales that are approaching their expiry date, offer Buy One Get One Free (BOGO) deals or attractive discounts to clear inventory and minimize product wastage.

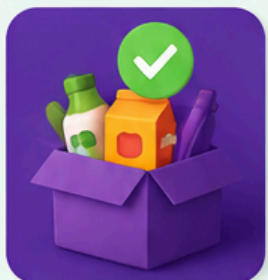

2 MINIMAL DISCOUNTS ON ESSENTIAL PRODUCTS

For essential and high-demand products that customers regularly need, maintain minimal discounts since their demand is relatively stable. This helps protect profit margins while maintaining sales.

3 BUNDLE HIGH-INVENTORY PRODUCTS

Products with excess inventory can be combined with frequently purchased products into attractive bundles. This helps increase sales while reducing excess stock.

4 IMPROVE AVAILABILITY OF HIGH-DEMAND PRODUCTS

Products that frequently go out of stock should be monitored closely and given higher inventory priority. Maintaining sufficient stock can prevent lost sales and improve customer satisfaction.

5 TARGETED DISCOUNTS INSTEAD OF BLANKET DISCOUNTS

Discounts should be focused on low-performing or slow-moving products rather than applying discounts across the entire catalog. This increases sales where needed while protecting margins on products that already have strong demand.
